Sprint 2 Development Review

Dear Development Team 48,

We thank you for your second development presentation, it gave us a deeper and more insightful look into how our website has been progressing. Below we detail our thoughts and regards on the project so far and certain aspects we believe you could improve on.

Unfortunately, we don't believe that the way you presented your demonstration was as prepared as your first demonstration. Some aspects were not presented as clearly as we would have expected them and the development team could be more involved in the presentation. Despite this, your team still managed to display all the new features and current development of the website reasonably well and could understand where the project is currently at. We believe the lack in preparation could be due to the rising pressure of accomplishing the website before the deadline.

From your first presentation, our team had high expectations going into this second presentation. Although some core functionality is lacking, the current features were quite impressive, the general appearance of the website looks pleasing, and we appreciate the continuation of the carousel theme throughout the different web pages. In regards to your sprint plan, we would like it if your team focused on the more fundamental features of the website, as other more minor features may be added after the deadline. We expect these main features to be implemented for release two.

Now looking at the presentation from a technical aspect, the current features that are implemented are completed with great detail and seem to be functioning the intended way. We understand that some characteristics of the website that we expected are too difficult to implement within the current timeline, however, we require any features that are core to the website be completed. Looking at the prior history of your development, we firmly believe that release two will be completed with a high level of detail.

As mentioned earlier, we found the demonstration to be lacking in professionalism slightly. The team leader however presented and displayed the website and clearly discussed the current state of the project well, however other members were not involved in the demonstration and did not contribute as much as we expected. From our first review letter, we brought attention to this aspect and are disappointed that this issue has not been resolved. For the demonstration, we greatly need this issue to be addressed.

Overall, our team was impressed by the quality of the project so far and we look forward to seeing the end result, however, we would appreciate if your team was more professional when it comes to demonstrating your website. Aside from that issue, we believe the website is coming along well and anticipate seeing the final project.

Sincerely
